

NBG Co-Sponsor of NeMa Athens 2015 Conference

National Bank of Greece, which heads the largest banking group in the country, is co-sponsoring the NeMa Athens 2015 Conference, the top annual Network Management conference in Europe. This year the Conference will be held in Athens, at Divani Apollo Palace in Kavouri, from 9 to 11 June 2015.

NeMa–Europe is addressed to managers from banks, financial institutions, custodians, regulators, stock exchanges, CSDs, CCPs, technological innovators specialized in post-trading activities, and others.

The Conference, which is considered the key event of the year in the field of post-trading activities, focuses on the foremost issues concerning the constantly changing post-trading environment, and at the same time gives participants the opportunity to exchange views with customers (existing and potential), competitors and collaborators.

The main speakers of the Conference and panel participants include eminent figures from the most important European banks, major stock exchanges and depositories, and regulatory and supervisory authorities.

At the Conference, the Bank will run an exhibition stand where expert NBG staff working in custody operations will provide information to participants about the services offered, while an expert from NBG will be a panel participant.
